Angustion

Description (Please a brief description of the game, focusing in the aims of the project almost the civic values and the heritage description)

This game is based in a novel called Metro 2033, and it happens in a near future where the humanity remains living in the metro, because it's impossible to live outside. In this situation our protagonist starts discussing with his father about "freedom" and decides to go to explore outside. So, he embarks in a trip which, in the end, it became a trip that is going to change his way to think.

So, in this game we tried to show how the experiences of life can change the person's mindset. As well, we wanted to define the result of this change through the values of a supposed "past".
